Dhing College, Dhing, Nagaon (Assam) has been selected as DBT Star College. After getting the Star college status including four departments (Physics, Chemistry, Botany & Zoology) the college arranges various programmes under the scheme. The Zoology department of the College done a field survey (Under Students Projects) on 13th October, 2023 to a nearby village Dhing Chamuagaon (Lat- 26.48151 & Long- 92.50049) to study the Child Immunization status of the village. The team was guided by HOD of Zoology, Dr. Purnima Das Bora. The inhabitant of the villages has mixed economical background. It is found that most of the families have vaccinated under different Central Govt. sponsored schemes. The team visited 74 number of household and it is observed that they are vaccinated against several diseases like Measles, Diphtheria, Hepatitis etc. Immunization is a key component of primary health care and Government has spent cores of rupees on immunization to uplift the condition of public health in general. In this study it is found that the children (0 to 5 years age) were vaccinated to the level of almost cent percent, their parents have a good knowledge about the diseases and the benefits of immunization. The present study did not observe unimmunized children in the village. These findings are different from NFHS-4 and NFHS-5 for Assam, where it has been reported that vaccination coverage 47% and 64.9% respectively in case of Assam.
